ELEVATION OF ARCHBISHOPS IS ANNOUNCED

Rome, March 24—(United Press)—Patrick J. Hayes, of New York and George W. Mundelein of Chicago, became America's new cardinals of the Roman Catholic church today.

At ten a. m. his holiness, Pope Pius convened the secret consistory, announcing the elevation of the American archbishops.

The Holy Father then read the allocution, setting forth the reasons of the church for honoring the United States. He paid a high tribute to American generosity and the support which American Catholics have rendered the work of the church.

Rome, March 24.—(United Press)—Addressing himself directly to America, Pope Pius paid high tribute to that country on the occasion today of raising Archbishops Hayes and Mundelein to the cardinalacy. The allocution follows:

"In the immense family which God has confided to us there are brothers more favored by divine providence, who, through the father, all come to the assistance of their less fortunate brothers in times of trial and disaster.

"Our hearts are touched and also exalted toward God in beholding their magnificent acts of filial piety and fraternal charity.

"We find pleasure in expressing to them from this exalted place and before this distinguished assembly the fervent declaration of our gratitude, which is the gratitude of a father who feels himself much indebted on behalf of his suffering children.

"We feel however, something would be wanting in this expression of gratitude if especial mention were not made of the position and part which the United States [illegible] maintained in this competition of charity. From the moment in which

Her son then came to her rescue, and giving her another loaded revolver, Mrs. Jackson began firing at Walters again, but fortunately missing him each time.

At this point in the affair a large crowd had gathered around the residence and, according to Mrs. Jackson's story, she was leaving the house to give herself up to the police when Kearns attempted to stop her in a struggle to secure the revolver accidentally went off, the bullet going through the woman's sweater and entering Kearns' wrist, continuing up to his elbow. ## 397 NAMES ON THE BLACK LIST

Harrisburg, March 24—The motorists blacklist of the State Highway Department is growing by leaps and bounds. With less than three months of 1924 past 397 names have been placed on Secretary Wright's roll. Activities of the automobile division last week, the report issued today showed, included license revocations for three persons and the adding of 43 names to the prohibited list.

For the whole of 1923 the list numbered about 1,000. The greater proportion of these records show, came in the summer months when there are more motorists and weather conditions are "better for violators." With an already large number for 1924 it is figured the total for this year will be far more than for last.

License revocatons— Intoxication: Percy Layton, Johnstown; R. E. Marshall, Johntsown; E. E. Miller, Scenery Hill. Under age—Kenneth Johnson, Loch Haven.

You are missing a great deal by not attending these services. The gospel is being preached in the demonstration of the Spirit as your grandparents used to see it. The Free Methodists are only old-fashioned Bible Christians. They believe in the separation from the world in spirit and practice. Come and hear and see for yourself. You are welcome. Honor Their Departed Brothers At Coyle Theatre — Eulogy Pronounced By W. R. Gaut, While Address Is Made By Mr. Carr

ORCHESTRA AND SINGING

Palace Orchestra, And Mrs. [illegible] and Miss Ethel Barth — Editor Cowan Introduces Mr. Carr, Who Talks of Immortality of Soul

Memorial services for their departed brothers of the Charleroi Aerie No 390, Fraternal Order of Eagles, at the Coyle theatre yesterday afternoon were attended by a concourse of people, members of the local Aerie and brothers from various aeries, as well as by the public generally, the theatre being filled to capacity.

Instrumental music was furnished by the Palace orchestra, and duets and solos were rendered by Mrs. Thelma Lowstuter and Miss Ethel Barth The Rev. Father Carl A. Demores gave the invocation, and at the close pronounced the benediction, while the opening announcement was made by Louis Brusa, Worthy President.

The eulogy was pronounced by William R Gaut, Past Worthy President Mr. Gaut said, among other things, that sorrow is the essence of life, and that each and all have a part in it. That Charleroi Aerie of Eagles did not mourn so much the passing of their brothers, realizing that the grave is not the goal, but there is a better life beyond the grave; but they do mourn the loss of their sympathy, their companionship, and their friendship; their unalterable loyalty to the principles on which the order of Eagles is founded.

Joe T. S. Cowan, editor and proprietor of the Roscoe Ledger, introduced the Hon. Wooda N. Carr, attorney, of Uniontown, and a former member of Congress, who made the address of the occasion. Mr. Carr is Past Worthy President of Uniontown Aerie No. 828, and his presentation of the merits of Eagledom as exemplified in the corner stones of the society, was accounted masterly in its details Mr. Carr took for his theme the immortality of the soul, showing that Eagledom knows no creed, but believes in the principles of liberty, equality, truth and justice and that it is the sphere and purpose of Eagles and should be of all humankind, to build for the coming generation. His address was punctuated with poetry to illustrate his points.

Carnations, emblematic of purity, were given each person as they entered the theatre.

The services were among the most successful of their kind ever given by the local Aerie.

HE HAD BOOZE IS SENT TO JAIL

If he pays the fine and costs the sentence will be reduced to one month.

William Green, colored, of Donora, got in trouble when an officer caught him up an alley sampling a pint of liquor. He was sentenced to pay the costs, a fine of $100 and to undergo imprisonment in the county jail for 30 days. If he pays the fine and the costs he will be released.

Waslow Jankowski, of the Tylerdale section, admitted the possession of a still, some mash and finished products. He is an employe of the Washington Tin Plate Co., and a steady workman, the foreman stated. He had evidently been making a little liquor for his own use. He was fined $100 and costs and sent to jail for two months. If the fine and costs are paid he will be released in 20 days.

A LARGE NUMBER SEE "PURIN PLAY"

Members of the Jewish Sabbath school presented to a large audience the performance of a "Purin Play" in the Bank of Charleroi building yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, which proved most successful. The leadin characters of the play were interpreted by Misses Louise and Hortense Greenberg and Pauline Collins. Miss Eleanor Collins, as Queen Esther, added much charm to the performance. She was ably assisted by Misses Esther Caplan, Sarah Rosenbloom and Master Gessner, the latter named of Bentleyville. Numerous other children made up the cast and each and every one is worthy of much praise. In the prologue, Misses Rose Krasnik, Toba Lichter, as spokesman, and Miss Rosenbloom, together [illegible] detailed account the joyous occasion. Another feature of the occasion was the classic ballad presented by Esther Wayne, Pauline Collins, and Hortense Greenberg. Pauline Collins and Esther Waner delighted their audience with several vocal solos, while Leonard Collins with his violin and Louis Lauf at the piano, entertained with solos of merit.

Much credit is due Mrs. I. Mallin, whose untiring efforts with the children enabled them to so successfully presnt th play. At the clos of the program, the Hebrew Mothers' club served a dainty luncheon, thus concluding a joyous afternoon.

WHAT WE SHALL EAT.

In the "good old times" people ate what pleased their palates, or what they found to "agree" with them, regarding their natural cravings as a proper and safe enough guide, but now they are not only instructed and warned by the accepted experts, but are gravely told in advertising announcements that they are chiefly in need of what some big trust has to sell. Thus the Sugar Refining Company notifies us:

"The food value obtainable from sugar for 1 cent in 1923 is shown to have been 214 calories, compared with 174 for bread and for meats like pork [illegible] beef 60 and [illegible] Ducks like cheese milk and butter yielded only 80, 79 and 72 calories, respectively, for 1 cent."

Commenting on this with less reverence than the Sugar Trust may regard as its due, the New York World rather frivolously observes; "The Sugar Trust seems to have the story in the matter of producing heat units for the human system barring alcohol, which may not be lawfully mentioned. But heat food is not the whole thing. What about the other essentials? The blood needs iron, and so the organized grape-growers of California are plastering the country with cautions to eat more raisins—not necessarily in a fermented liquid form. The body needs protein foods, and here the dairy and breakfast food interests are clamourously bidding for notice. Also the great corporated meat producers, whose blazoned bulletins point to the Department of Agriculture for authority to eat more meat. The body needs fats and again the Beef Trust is heard. Now we are told in a current advertisement and on the highest scientific authority employed by a joint coffee-trade agency that coffee is "the servant rather than the destroyer of civilization." Hence drink more coffee. And so it goes."

AS DUCKS TAKE TO WATER

Bolshevist denunciation of England's Labor Government on the ground that its boasted democratic principle "serves only to keep the proletariat in chains" has been answered with the explanation that Premier Ramsay McDonald offends the Russian communists because he stands for genuine democracy instead of class government, for the interests of the whole people and of no particular class, while the Bolshevists stand for government in the interests of the proletariat alone, and thus have merely substituted the tyranny of the proletariat for the old tyranny of the aristocracy. No doubt this is [illegible] general, but it is possible that Bolshevist rage is at least partly based on something more.

For members of the British Labor government are betraying a marked reverence for old traditions and an amusing fondness for aristocratic trappings. For example, James Brown, a Socialist and a miner, after being appointed Lord High Commissioner of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, a position reserved for the Scottish nobility since the time of the royal Stuarts, not only accepts all the glories of the office, including residence in Holyrood Palace while the Assembly is in session, but has made announcement: "Because a tenant of a ten pound miner's cottage has been given the office does not mean any of its old dignities or traditions will be departed from. I am going to show Scotland a Socialist can do things properly and maintain historic traditions." In other words, Britain's socialistic democracy is as pleased with inherited aristocratic forms as a duck with a pond of water.

The Enquirer erred last week in announcing the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Garry Landeman. The name of the son was correct, but the parents were Mr. and Mrs. Gary Klopfenstine.

DR. CHALFANT TO SPEAK AT CHURCH

our voice first was raised on behalf of the starving children of Russia the Episcopate, clergy, and people of the United States responded to our appeal with a promptness and generosity which immediately placed them in the front ranks of the crusade for charity."

The streets have been filled with Americans since Saturday. Hotels and boarding houses are crowded.

FATE OF 11 GIRLS MAY BE GIVEN TO SPECIAL MAN

New York, March 24—(United Press)—The fate of eleven girls, missing within the last two years from the Letchworth village home may be entrusted for investigation to a special prosecutor, if Gov. Smith grants a request of Dr. Anna W. Hochfelder, who has evolved a startling murder theory.

Dr Hochfelder, assistant corporation counsel, insists that the bones of skeleton found in a cave on Cheesecock mountain are those of Lillian White former inmate of the institution.

Together with Capt. Grant Williams, former head of the missing persons bureau, Dr. Hochfelder claims to know the identity of the white girl's murderer.

The disappearance of Mary Weisnek and Helen Johnson, two other inmates of the Letchworth home, a fortnight ago, led to demand for a special deputy attorney general to prosecute the man Dr. Hochfelder will accuse.

The circumstances surrounding the disappearance of the Weissnel girl are somewhat similar to those that existed when Lillian White was missed.

Eight other girls, one after another have vanished from the home, which is the New York state home for the feeble minded.

The finding of bleached white bones in a cave several miles from the institution put Dr. Hochfelder and Capt. Williams on the case.

They reconstructed a crumbled skull and declared it to be that of Lillian White.

They accused a former employe of the home as the murderer.

Alleging that prosecution by local officials has been hampered by lack of funds and of interest in their murder theory, Dr. Hochfelder and Capt. Williams are demanding appointment of a special prosecutor.

NEW PRINCES OF CATHOLIC CHURCH NEW YORKERS

New York, March 24 — (United Press)—Two [illegible] men [illegible] of the Catholic church—Patrick J. Hayes and George W. Mundelein—were born and schooled in New York's section of turmoil and romance, the lower East Side.

The impressive colorful ceremony before the high altar of St. Peter's, with its consequent elevation to the sacred tier cannot dim the memories of neighbors who knew them in boyhood. Then they were two normal American lads with their pockets stuffed with marbles and their caps full of tricks. They were always, however, kindly and pious.

Little "Pat" Hayes, as his schoolmates called him, was a fast friend of George Mundelein. Although they attended different parish schools on the East Side, they both were graduated from De La Salle Academy and were together in Manhattan College.

At Manhattan [illegible] handle a baseball with the best of them, and delighted in wrestling matches. He was also a keen player of checkers and chess. Both boys, according to their teachers, were very religious.

Mundelein had clerical ambitions almost before he could toddle. His favorite childhood game was "playing church." He made himself an altar and used his savings to buy a lace trimmed altar cloth. He got candles from his mother's grocery store and [illegible] for his altar boys out of old lace curtains.

THE TOP OF THE POST OFFICE LADDER

The highest-paid woman in the United States postal service makes $6,000 a year. As a matter of fact only five men postmasters in the country receive more than Elizabeth Barnard, mistress of the Tampa (Fla.) office.

Married at eighteen, her soldier husband left her a widow six years later with two children, no income and no notion of what she could do. The first job she could find consisted of weighing nails and measuring rope. For this she received all of $4 a week. Mornings, noons and nights she served boarders in her mother's home, racing back and forth between jobs until every ounce of endurance was stretched to match the will that drove her. There wasn't much left over for mothering her babies.

Somehow she found between-while minutes both at shop and home. Into these scattered scraps of leisure she poked a correspondence course in shorthand. Stenographer Barnard more than tripled the income of Clerk Barnard, she went on Uncle Sam's pay roll at what seemed to her the princely sum of $600 per annum.

Sixteen years in the Tampa post office have found her moving up the ladder rung by rung. There isn't an assignment in the service that she hasn't held down and made good on, it is said. There is a tradition that she is the only woman entrusted with the "man's job" of assistant superintendent of mails.

"Perhaps willingness to serve absolute loyalty and attending to my duties to the exclusion of outside influences explain my promotion," she said recently in the Independent Woman. "Then I discovered a long time ago that when I can say 'Leave this to me—you needn't bother with it further,' the average 'boss' is gratified."

Politically, her appointment by Mr. Harding last January proved interesting to many people in both major parties. Florida is a Southern, and therefore normally Democratic, state, but recent population growth has come largely from Republican sections.

Green Gutta Percha.

This substance is now obtained from the leaves of the caoutchouc tree and is said to be more durable than that procured by cutting into the stem of the tree. Unlike the ordinary product, it does not require an expensive process of purification, so that its cost is cheapened. In France and elsewhere green gutta percha has been employed in the construction of submarine cables.—Washington Star.

Woodstone.

Woodstone is the name of a material made of sawdust mixed with magnesia cement and compressed under enormous pressure. This woodstone is very like ordinary wood, save that it has no grain. It is made in planks which can be cut with a saw and planed, and has the advantage of not being inflammable.

Eliminate Extra Steps.

By carefully arranging utensils and supplies to eliminate extra steps and motions, experimenters at University of Washington have demonstrated that a housewife can cut nearly eleven minutes from the time ordinarily taken to make a lemon pie.

PAINTED FISH IS THE NEWEST

Harrisburg, Pa., March 24.—Agents of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture have found painted fish in Philadelphia sea food markets. John M. McKee, deputy secretary of agriculture, today reported white salmon, dipped in coal tar dye to give them a reddish tint, were sold as red salmon.

Robert M. Simmers, general agent of the Bureau of Foods, discovered the fraud and notified the Department's Harrisburg office. It was explained that red salmon brings four times the price of the white fish, which were painted in Chicago and shipped to Philadelphia.

Western shippers were notified the deception must be stopped. Immediate action was taken by James Foust, director of the bureau, to investigate fish markets throughout the state to learn whether there has been wide-spread distribution of the painted fish. Criminal proceedings will be instituted where the fish are found on sale, he declared.

"Dealers in coal tar dyed fish are cheating the public's pocketbook and injuring public health. The iniquitous practice must be stopped," Foust said.

Artificial Lighting.

It has been computed that there are four times as many artificial lighting hours in winter as in summer. One and a half hours cover the use of light in the average residence in June. While six and a half hours is the average time for December.

Some Mexican Laws.

Certain Mexican states have an interesting law affecting burglars. The culprit in cases of petty larceny is made to repay the plaintiff by working for him so many days, the period varying according to the nature of the theft.

Got 'Em Trained.

Mrs. A. "And you've had the same girl for two years?" Mrs. B.—"Yes; she says she doesn't believe in changing after she has gone to the trouble of teaching a family her ways."—Boston Transcript.

Annoying.

It is annoying to a modest man to ask anything of value from one on whom he thinks he has conferred a favor, lest he should seem to demand it as a right rather than ask it as a favor.

Bandits Get Drop On Policeman Forcing Him To Surrender His Arms

Hurrying to the district between Hendersonville and Hills Station, where two highwaymen were reported to be operating on Saturday afternoon, Policeman Paul Arnold, of Canonsburg, encountered the discomfiting experience of having the alleged bandits get the "drop" on him, they forcing him to surrender a rifle and a revolver to them.

Taking up the trail of the two men which led through a section of woodland, Policeman Arnold was hurrying along hoping to catch up with them when they unexpectedly stepped out from a clump of trees behind which they had hidden and with drawn revolvers forced him to throw up his hands and turn over his weapons.

Policeman Arnold was then ordered to beat a retreat along the path back to the main road. He rallied forces and with a short time had the woodland surrounded but when it was entered later by Chief County Detective W. D. Dinsmore and County Detective D. W. Creigh and Chief of Police Crumm, of Canonsburg, it was found to be deserted.

It was reported that the highwaymen held up several pedestrians and tried to stop Dominick Faconi, a merchant of Hills Station, who was in an automobile. Falconi, instead of stopping, speeded up his machine and made his getaway. The bandits fired two shots after him.

Going to a farmhouse Falconi secured a shotgun and retracing his steps, came upon the bandits as they were in the act of holding up a pedestrian. Falconi fired three shots and put the highwaymen to flight but failed to hit them. He then telephoned to Canonsburg and Policeman Paul Arnold rushed to the scene in an automobile.

Another resident of the district, who had joined in the hunt for the highwaymen arrived on the scene at the time Policeman Arnold had been relieved of his weapons and fired five times at the highwaymen but failed to hit them.

News of the stirring happenings in the Hendersonville-Hills Station district was finally sent to Washington and Chief County Detective Dinsmore and County Detective Creigh left for the scene at once. They arrived just as darkness was settling over the section and made a thorough search men.

The two men are said to have been foreigners. One was about five feet six inches in height, weighing about 155 pounds, light in complexion, about 26 years old, with no overcoat, a light cap and brown shoes. The other man was between 30 and 35 years of age, about five feet eight inches in height, and slender. He had on a light suit, brown overcoat, and brown slough hat.

Church Folk To Sit In Conference On Work In Rural Communities

Representatives of the Roman Catholic and Episcopal church and of practically all the other Christian denominations will sit down together at Madison, Wisconsin, June 30 to July 11 enxt, for a conference on Church work in rural communities. Announcement of this conference was made yesterday by Rev. Charles N. Lathrop, Secretary of the Social Service Department of the Episcopal church.

The unusual fact that the clergy of the Roman Catholic church are to participate with the clergy of the Protestant denominations in this conference. Rev. Mr. Lathrop said, was not entirely new, since a similar conference was held at Madison, last summer, in which clergy of the Roman church participated; and in the interim,an inter troup committee,composed of erpresentatives from a score of churches and organizations, including Roman Catholics, has been at work throughout the year on plans for the forthcoming conference.

The rural problem of the churches, it is explained, is one which has puzzled the leaders of all denominations, in consequence of which there was organized at the University of Wisconsin a general conference on the problem which had such marked success through an interchange of views, that it was determined to conduct a similar conference this year. The problem will embrace such subjects of general interest as the economics of community life. rural sociology,community recreation,special interests like boys' work, community service, health program and agricultural subjects.

Under the plans adopted last year and which will be continued at the forthcoming conference, separate meetings of the different church groups were held. and then at stated intervals, all of their groups combined in one general conference for the discussion of the common problems. It has been recommended by the Committee appointed at last years' conference that a course in rural work for the clergy be prepared to cover a two or three years cycle, whereby clergymen engaged in rural work may return durng successive years and that a course of training during the intervals be provided.
